RE: ELECTRI INTERNATIONAL: COVID-19 RESEARCH REPORT

Electri International recently requested participation from NECA members to support their most current research report pertaining to the COVID-19 pandemic. Electrical contractors and partners came together from across the industry to produce industry recommendations on the ways companies can negotiate contracts and changes resulting from pandemic operations.

Electri has made available to its members the initial findings and recommendations (click here) to review the report titled "Pandemics and Construction Productivity: Quantifying the Impact". Electri International enlisted many individuals and their firms from among our Council members to work collaboratively and intensively to produce the data and recommendations for this study.

Please feel free to contact me (215-806-3517) with any questions or concerns you may have regarding the Electri Report.

Thank you.
